ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE (Describe important architectural features and evaluate in terms of other buildings within the community.)

This is one of half-a-dozen substantial Colonial Revival houses built on Winthrop Road and interspersed among other turn-of-the-twentieth-century houses. Features include a hip roof with dormers and an allusion to a palladian window at the center of the second level in the form of a three-part window with wooden semicircular fan above.

HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE (Explain the role owners played in local or state history and how the building relates to the development of the community.)

HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE:

What is now 12 Winthrop Road was known as 6 Winthrop until the 1930s.

Frederic Galloupe, who worked at a bank in Boston, was living here by 1899, with his wife Dora. He was still living here in 1942.
